President Flies Home From His Triumphal Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Kennedy returned to the capital Sunday from a triumphal visit to Mexico that made him a popular hero but failed to change U.S.-Mexican differences over Castro's Cuba

The presidential jet bearing the Chief Executive and Mrs. Kennedy landed at nearby Andrews Air Force Base. From there the first family traveled by helicopter to the White House.

On Wednesday the President flies to Philadelphia for a fourth of July speech to delegates attending the governors conference.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy waved and smiled to the Mexico city crowds that turned out to see them leave the Mexican capital. In Mexico they received perhaps the most enthusiastic and friendly welcome afforded them on any trip abroad.

New Era Pledged

Kennedy went home pledging with Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos a "new era of understanding" between Mexico and the United States that started with the wild welcome here on Friday and ended in this ancient capital this morning to the same thunderous "vivas."

When the plane landed here it mmediately was surrounded by British police and immigration officials. Passengers were disembarked and then policemen went aboard with a stretcher and carried Soblen off the plane. Later, several bloodstained seats were taken out of the plane.

Police carried Soblen to ambulance, which sped him to the hospital. Attendants there said he was conscious on arrival. Soblen was convicted of being a member of an espionage ring in the United States which was gathering information for the Soviet Union about the Office of Strate gic Services during World War II. His final appeal against the sentence was rejected by the Supreme Court last Monday.

Plans Pushed For Romney Bicentennial

Parade Is Set For August 11

ROMNEY. W. Va.-Plans for Romney's Bicentennial observance on August 8-11, are developing satisfactorily, according to President Henry Harness who heads the executive committee handling the extraordinary event which is designed to publicize West Virginia's oldest incorporated municipality on the occasion of its 200th birthday

While the three previous days are chock full of interesting events, the climax will be reached on Saturday, August 11, when the Bicentennial Queen will be crowned by Mrs. W. W. Barron, wife of West Virginia governor, and the Grand Feature Parade will be staged along with a concert by the Metropolitan Police Band of Washington, D. C. The Queen's Ball that evening will ring down the curtain on what stacks up as the greatest celebration ever held in the Hampshire County town.

Romney's business area is beginning to take on a festive character, with colorful red. white and blue bunting, bearing the Bicentennial official seal, Highway adorning store, office and restaurant fronts. The assembling of a cast to stage the "Romney Fatalities Revue of '62", a musical extravaganza, is progressing nicely under the direction of Emmett and the direction of Emmett and Nina Oldfield, well-known professional showmen.

Africa's Newest, Weakest States

Ruanda-Urundi might be a source of high comedy, were it not such a probable site of tragedy. By a vote of the U. N. General Assembly, taken last Wednesday, the tiny trust territory about twice the size of Maryland was divided just yesterday into Africa's two newest, weakest and potentially most chaotic statesthe Republic of Rwanda and the Kingdom of Burundi.

Both lands are poor. Their five million natives produce coffee, cotton and some minerals, but there never is enough to go around. Four centuries ago the Watusi, a tribe considered among the world's tallest people, invaded the area, bringing with them some scrawny cattle. In the 19th Century the territory became part of Germany's East African holdings. Since World War I it has been a Belgian trusteeship. The Belgians about 10 years ago began giving the Hutu more power in native councils, thereby precipitating bloody revolts in Ruanda, where the Watusi were overthrown, 60,000 of them fleeing into the Congo. Now their terrorists, the Ineynzi (cockroaches), raid Hutu villages in the Congo and Tanganyika. In Urundi things are calmer. The Watusi are still in charge, and their king, Mwami Mwambutsa IV, will be a constitutional monarch. The Hutu, however, have some rights and privileges.

Under the U. N. decision, the 900 Belgian paratroopers, the only possible source of security, can stay till August 1, or longer if requested by the new government. But even if there's no tribal warfare, administrators and technicians will be needed.

In God We Trust

Every strong nation in history has lived by an ideal and has died when its ideals were dissipated. The area that eventually became the United States was founded principally by religious sects, Pilgrims, Puritans, Quakers, Roman Catholics, Amish, Moravians, Jews, and many others who came to these shores to worship God according to the traditions of their ancestors and their own beliefs. When a colony was established and a town was founded, a schoolhouse and a church were built. And it was the church which became the center of the social and moral life of the community. We are a religious people.

Most of the schoolmasters were clergymen and practically all the leading schools of higher learning such as Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Princton were founded by religious sects, originally to train clergymen. When the colonists found that they had to separate themselves from Great Britain and to form a new nation, they issued a Declaration of Independence in which they spoke of "nature's law and nature's God." When they wrote a Constitution, they included an amendment for religious freedom.

The President has always taken his office by an oath sworn on a Bible. Oaths generally end in the phrase, "So help me God." Upon the coinage of the United States stands in bold relief the words. "In God We Trust." The national anthem of our country, "The Star-Spangled Banner," contains the phrase, "In God Is Our Trust."

The decision written by Mr. Justice Hugo Black eliminating God from the teaching of the young in tax-supported schools is most unusual in that he cites no references, no precedents for the expulsion of God from our civilization. Apparently, he did it all on his own and five colleagues supported him. It was a curious decision for these men to make:

Hugo Black does not give any religious affiliation in his account in "Who's Who in America." As is wellknown such biographical material in usually prepared by the person named. Ditto Justice John Marshall Harlan, Ditto Justice William Joseph Brennan, who is reputed to be a Roman Catholic. Mr. Justice William O. Douglas declares himself to be a Presbyterian and a Mason. He, at any rate, indicates pride in ancestry and affiliation. Mr. Justice Tom Clark is a Presbyterian, a Mason (32nd degree, Shriner). Earl Warren, the Chief Justice, describes himself as a 33rd degree Mason but offers no religion.

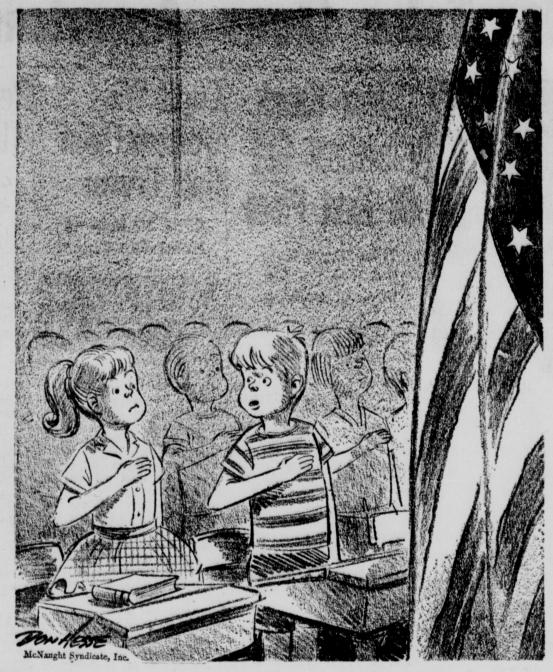

It is difficult to understand how six such men reached the conclusion that an undenominational prayer, especially prepared to avoid offending any sect in the religions of God and voluntarily employed, could be offensive to a civilization which bases itself up on the Hebrew Old Testament and the Christian New Testament. There are prayers which are employed by all denominations of the religions of God. For instance, the prayer which begins with the words, in English translation, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul and with all thy might, etc.," comes directly from Deuteronomy and is spoken by Jew and Christian alike. All the Psalms are prayers and one of the most beautiful, the 23rd. is recited at the funeral services of Jew and Christian alike.

The Old Tesament, the Jewish part of the Bible, consists of the Torah, the five books of Moses, the N'viim, the Prophets, and the Psalms. The New Testament consists of the Apostles, the Epistles and the Apocalypse Perhaps some of the books have been lost over the centuries, but what we have is the basis of our civilization. There are some who quarrel over the translations and therein lies sectarianism but no one quarrels over the theological basis of the Judaic-Christian civilization, namely "There is but one God," and the Moral Law which we often refer to, without complication, as the Ten Commandments. Without this basis, we have no civilization, no form, no character. no distinctiveness.

Soviet Russia and the other Communist countries base themselves on Marxism-Leninism, which can be termed, dialectical materialism. We in the United States base ourselves on the religions of God. Neither the Supreme Court nor any other body can erase God from our hearts, for we shall teach our children to pray for His gentle kindness and mercy no matter what the black-robed secularists say.

May God have mercy on their souls! (Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Mao Personally Ordered Chinese Troop Buildup Opposite Formosa

WASHINGTON - Here are the highlights of diplomatic and intelligence dispatches which have worried the White House regarding the Chinese Communists buildup opposite the Formosa Strait.

The buildup was ordered by Chairman Mao Tse-Tung personally, perhaps as the last desperate act of a leader slipping from power. Inside sources claim that Mao personally wrote the long, shrill warning put out by the Chinese Communist news agency but attributed to an unnamed correspondent. The language of the dispatch was almost hysterical, flailing the United States and warning Chiang Kai-Shek not to try coming back to the mainland.

Some observers believe Mao is putting on this military show in an attempt to divert his Red rivals who blame him for China's food shortages and would like to oust him from power. They are reportedly ready to retire him to an honorary post at the forthcoming Ninth Party Congress.

MOSCOW REPORT - From U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow comes a cautious report that the Chinese Communists may not be able to count upon their Russian comrades to back them in any military venture over the Formosa Strait. Thompson claims that the Russians, far from helping to relieve Red China's economic disBy Drew Pearson

Ambassador Thompson has also learned that Russia not only offered India two squadrons of supersonic jet fighters to counteract the Chinese border threat. but actually approved the airlift Himalayan border. They even flew in Soviet-made helicopters. Prime Minister Nehru of India took the precaution of checking with the Russians before using the Russian-made helicopters in a military move against the Chinese Reds. Surprisingly, the Russians encouraged him to go

Thompson believes the Russians will beat the propaganda drums in support of Red China merely for the sake of Communist solidarity, but that they would secretly like to see Mao lose face over Formosa. Of course an actual invasion of the Chinese mainland by Chiang Kai-Shek probably would force Russia to go to war in order to keep China from dropping out of the Communist orbit altogether.

FORMOSA REPORT -- Chiang Kai-Shek has pleaded with American authorities that widespread unrest makes Red China ripe for revolt, and that an invasion must be attempted this year if the Communists are ever to be thrown out of China. Chiang has enough landing craft to move one full division without American help. Earlier this year he begged for permission to send a division ashore on a massive commando raid against the mainland, to see whether the populace would be encouraged to rise up against their Communist masters. However, Kennedy decided the project was too risky. Now Chiang has threatened to land a division on the mainland without American approval. Kennedy has warned him very sharply, however, not to try it.

PEARL HARBOR REPORT Adm. Harry Felt, our Pacific commander, has assured President Kennedy that the Navy can repulse any military move by the Chinese Communists in the Formosa Strait. He has also contardicted published reports that the Red buildup appears to be defensive. The admiral claims, on the contrary, that the movement of troops and their de- had been doing too.

The other day he and Sen. The two GOP solons didn't like this a bit.

Inside reason why they were belligerent was because they suspected Jack Anderson, my associate, had read some of their correspondence with the Agriculture Department and that this was the source of his column, June 22, reporting that Karl had been doing exactly what he charged the Democrats with doing on behalf of Billie Sol Estes.

The column reported that on September 1, 1959, Senator Mundt had used his influence with the Agriculture Department to insist that Omer Appelwick of Madison, S.D., get more government grain for his elevator. The Agriculture Department under Ike was planning to give Applewick only $25,000 bushels whereas Karl said the elevator held 147,000 bushels. Mundt claimed the government had made a "commit-

The Court And Moral Teaching In The Schools

WASHINGTON - Rarely in the history of the Supreme Court of the United States has it had occasion to define to what extent the teaching of morality or the mere exposition of religious doctrine in the classroom becomes a violation of the constitution's edict that there shall be no religious "establishment" imposed

The court, of course, has had to deal frequently in the past with a variety of collateral issues. It ruled invalid in 1925 an Oregon state law which compelled all children to attend public schools. The court said this was unconstitutional because it interfered with the right of the free exercise of religion by those who wished to go to parochial schools. Then Illinois passed a law which provided that religious instruction could be given on the premises of public schools by visiting clergymen and that those students whose parents objected could be excused from attendance. The Court in 1948 said the mere use of the school building for this purpose was unconstitu-

Subsequently New York State passed a law permitting those students who desired to do so to leave the building during a certain school hour each week to go to their respective churches for instruction. This was called 'released time' and was upheld in 1952 by the Supreme Court of the United States. It is the "law of the land" today. It was a permissive act involving the consent of the state government.

But not one of these decisions dealt specifically with what really constitutes religious training or prayer or discussion of religious principles in the classroom. The closest to this phase was a famous decision handed down in 1844 known as the Girard College case. It has had sequels in cases before the courts of Pennsylvania. Supreme Court ruled last week in relation to New York State's prescription of a formal prayer in public schools, it is interesting to note the over-all friendliness which the highest court in the land once exhibited toward classroom teaching of morality and the proper conduct of the individual.

It happened that Stephen Girard left a big sum of money to found a college to be administered by the city government in Philadelphia. He provided in his will that no minister or ecclesiastic representing any sect should be allowed to become a member of the faculty. He wrote as fol-

The will was challenged in court on the ground that it violated a law of Pennsylvania which said that the Christian religion was a part of the common law of that state and that Mr. Girard's instructions in his bequest were really an attack on the Christian religion and a violation of state law.

The Supreme Court of the United States, in unanimously upholding the will, wrote an opinion which in effect said that the teaching of the principles of morality by laymen instructors reflection upon any sect or per- was equivalent to the teaching of Christianity? the common law of the state of Pennsylvania. For Mr. Girard had provided "that all the instructors and teachers in the college shall take pains to instill into the minds of the scholars the purest principles of morality, so that on their entrance into active life they may from inclination and habit evince benevolence towards their fellow-creatures, and a love of truth, sobriety, and industry, adopting at the same time such religious tenets as their matured reason may enable them to prefer."

The Supreme Court, after quoting that passage from the will, then said in its formal opinion:

"Now, it may well be asked, what is there in all this, which is positively enjoined, inconsistent with the spirit of truths of all taught by Christanity, although it teaches much more? Where can the purest principles of morality be learned so clearly or so perfectly as from the New Testament? Where are benevolence, the love of truth, sobriety. and industry, so powerfully and irresistibly inculcated as in the sacred volume? The testator has not said how these great principles are to be taught, or by whom, except it be by layman, nor what books are to be used to explain or enforce them. All that we can gather from his language is, that he desired to exclude sectarians and sectarianism from the college, leaving the instructors and officers free to teach the purest morality, the love of truth, sobriety, and industry, by all appropriate means; and of course including the best. the surest, and the most impres-

This decision will be read and reread today in view of the 6 to 1 opinion handed bown by the Supreme Court last week. For while the ruling just made bars "official prayer" and any state rekuirement that it shall be recited as a daily exercise, the principles laid down in the Girard case are valid today. Morality can be discussed and taught in the public schools without violating the Constitution of the United States.

The Foleys are the luckiest people in the world. They have happiness. They have nothing else. Just happiness. They came to our house to stay for a week and they brightened the place so much we turned off the lights. I wrote a column about John and Mary Foley four years ago. It was called "Happy is the Bride the Sun Shines On."

It told about their marriage a score or more years ago, and their dreams. None of them came true. They never had children. They were never able to put a dime in the bank. Mary had a speech impediment which did not improve with age. Johnny developed hardening of the leg arteries and had to quit work as a truck driver.

He was home. She worked. One day she fell to the sidewalk. Mary Foley went to the hospital. She had had a stroke. The left side was paralyzed. The hair turned white. They sent her home. Johnny was sent to the hospital and had a heart attack. From that day onward, they have sat, smiling at each other, kidding each other, and praying for friends "who are having

They went on relief. The Hudson County relief agency took the last thing Mary had left-her life insurance policy. The officials still have it. Foley's hobby is a ham radio set. It lifts his spirit to be able to talk with other men, some far away. Mary cannot talk well. So she sits and looks at television and sometimes, when days and weeks go by with no visitors, she gets the blues.

When her morale sags, Mary feels guilty. Many people, many neighbors, have been kind to the Foleys. So she blames herself as she looks out the 13th floor window at a vast expanse of sunlight and feels overtaken by loneliness. She has plenty of relatives, but they are too busy to visit. Only a nephew, Raymond McCarthy, finds the time to stop by, armed with a smile and a coffee cake, to sit awhile and give her the small news of small people. Then she brightens.

Her husband is the only one who sees these moods. When she came down to the shore, she arrived radiant, remained that "God has been good to us." It is dangerous to tell her a story about a friend who has a sick

Every week, they mail one dollar to the Foleys. I told Johnny I couldn't believe it. "Ask Mary," he said. Mary nodded. I said it couldn't be, because the column had been written four years ago. They shrugged.

They have great senses of humor. Mary laughs until her eyes are moist, the paralyzed left hand shaking against her stomach. Johnny chuckles. Children get the most attention from the Foleys. No child, according to them, can do anything wrong. No child should be criticized or punished. Mary and John can spend considerable time exclaiming over the drawing of a lopsided apple, as long as the little girl who drew it is listen-

Foley cannot move a hundred feet without both legs going into cramps. Still, he and his wife tired so much of looking at the four walls that Johnny painted the place himself. It took a long time, but Mary was proud of it when it was completed, and a neighbor hung some fresh curtains for them. For awhile, Mary was happy showing the place off. She drags her left side and, enroute to another room, she tried not to touch the wall for support.

But even that cannot keep a woman ecstatic for long. When Kelly and I drove them home, I could sense the sadness of two kids who have finished the ice cream soda, have cleaned the bottom of the glass with straw and spoon, and who must now leave the premises. When we got to Heckmann Drive, I helped Mary out of the car. Johnny unlocked the mail box.

There was one letter in it. He held it up. The cancellation mark said "Toledo, Ohio." He opened it. A dollar bill fell out and fluttered to the ground. "We're so lucky," Mary said. Yes indeed . . .

tress, have actually withheld grain shipments and pressed the Chinese for payments of old Korean war debts

Ambassador Thompson has also learned that Russia not only offered India two squadrons of supersonic jet fighters to counteract the Chinese border threat, but actually approved the airlift Himalayan border. They even flew in Soviet-made helicopters.

Prime Minister Nehru of India took the precaution of checking with the Russians before using the Russian-made helicopters in a military move against the Chinese Reds. Surprisingly, the Russians encouraged him to go

Thompson believes the Russians will beat the propaganda drums in support of Red China merely for the sake of Communist solidarity, but that they would secretly like to see Mao lose face over Formosa. Of course an actual invasion of the Chinese mainland by Chiang Kai-Shek probably would force Russia to go to war in order to keep China from dropping out of the Communist orbit altogether.

FORMOSA REPORT -- Chiang Kai-Shek has pleaded with American authorities that widespread unrest makes Red China ripe for revolt, and that an invasion must be attempted this year if the Communists are ever to be thrown out of China.

Chiang has enough landing craft to move one full division without American help. Earlier this year he begged for permission to send a division ashore on a massive commando raid against the mainland, to see whether the populace would be encouraged to rise up against their Communist masters. However, Kennedy decided the project was too risky. Now Chiang has threatened to land a division on the mainland without American approval. Kennedy has warned him very sharply, however, not to try it.

PEARL HARBOR REPORT -Adm. Harry Felt, our Pacific commander, has assured President Kennedy that the Navy can repulse any military move by the Chinese Communists in the Formosa Strait. He has also contardicted published reports that the Red buildup appears to be defensive. The admiral claims, on the contrary, that the movement of troops and their deployment suggest that the Reds

Sen. Karl Mundt, the GOP solon from South Dakota, is about as mercurial as the hot and cold winds that sweep across his state - sometimes from the badlands, sometimes from Canada, He can be as bland as an occidental Buddha, as charming as a public speaking school teacher (which he once was), and as belligerent as a Dakota buffalo with calf. The other day he and Sen. Carl Curtis from the neighboring state of Nebraska belligerently summoned Tom Hughes, assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Freeman, and grilled him behind closed doors about digging into Mundt's and Curtis's correspondence with the Agriculture Department. The two GOP solons didn't like this a bit.

Inside reason why they were belligerent was because they suspected Jack Anderson, my associate, had read some of their correspondence with the Agriculture Department and that this was the source of his column, June 22, reporting that Karl had been doing exactly what he charged the Democrats with doing on behalf of Billie Sol Estes.

The column reported that on September 1, 1959, Senator Mundt had used his influence with the Agriculture Department to insist that Omer Appelwick of Madison, S.D., get more government grain for his elevator. The Agriculture Department under Ike was planning to give Applewick only $25,000 bushels whereas Karl said the elevator held 147,000 bushels. Mundt claimed the government had made a "commit-

Anderson also noted that Appelwick has been a faithful contributor to Karl's campaign fund.

Following publication of the column, Mundt, no longer bland as a Buddha, cross-examined Hughes as to whether he had leaked this story. Hughes hadn't The source was

The Court And Moral Teaching In The Schools

WASHINGTON - Rarely in the history of the Supreme Court of the United States has it had occasion to define to what extent the teaching of morality or the mere exposition of religious doctrine in the classroom becomes a violation of the constitution's edict that there shall be no religious "establishment" imposed

The court, of course, has had to deal frequently in the past with a variety of collateral issues. It ruled invalid in 1925 an Oregon state law which compelled all children to attend public schools. The court said this was unconstitutional because it interfered with the right of the free exercise of religion by those who wished to go to parochial schools. Then Illinois passed a law which provided that religious instruction could be given on the premises of public schools by visiting clergymen and that those students whose parents objected could be excused from attendance. The Court in 1948 said the mere use of the school building for this purpose was unconstitu-

Subsequently New York State passed a law permitting those students who desired to do so to leave the building during a certain school hour each week to go to their respective churches for instruction. This was called "released time" and was upheld in 1952 by the Supreme Court of the United States. It is the "law of the land" today. It was a permissive act involving the consent of the state government. But not one of these decisions dealt specifically with what really constitutes religious training or prayer or discussion of religious principles in the classroom. The closest to this phase was a famous decision handed down in 1844 known as the Girard College case. It has had sequels in cases before the courts of Pennsylvania. The Supreme Court of the United States, moreover, let stand a state ruling on one aspect of the Girard case even as recently as 1958.

While the Girard case of more than a century ago dealt with an altogether different set of

The will was challenged in court on the ground that it violated a law of Pennsylvania which said that the Christian religion was a part of the common law of that state and that Mr. Girard's instructions in his bequest were really an attack on the Christian religion and a violation of state law.

The Supreme Court of the United States, in unanimously upholding the will, wrote an opinion which in effect said that the teaching of the principles of morality by laymen instructors was equivalent to the teaching of Christianity's philosophy and all taught by Christanity, althat hence, instead of violating though it teaches much more? state law, it was really conamongst them, I desire to keep forming to the idea that Christthe tender minds of the orphans, ian principles were a part of

For while the ruling just made bars "official prayer" and any state rekuirement that it shall be recited as a daily exercise, the principles laid down in the Girard case are valid today. Morality can be discussed and taught in the public schools without violating the Constitution of the United States.

The Foleys are the luckiest people in the world. They have happiness. They have nothing else. Just happiness. They came to our house to stay for a week and they brightened the place so much we turned off the lights. I wrote a column about John and Mary Foley four years ago. It was called "Happy is the Bride the Sun Shines On."

It told about their marriage a score or more years ago, and their dreams. None of them came true. They never had children. They were never able to put a dime in the bank. Mary had a speech impediment which did not improve with age. Johnny developed hardening of the leg arteries and had to quit work as a truck driver.

He was home. She worked. One day she fell to the sidewalk. Mary Foley went to the hospital. She had had a stroke. The left side was paralyzed. The hair turned white. They sent her home. Johnny was sent to the hospital and had a heart attack. From that day onward, they have sat, smiling at each other, kidding each other, and praying for friends "who are having

They went on relief. The Hudson County relief agency took the last thing Mary had left-her life insurance policy. The officials still have it. Now the Foleys are living in a housing development at 9 Heckmann Drive, Jersey City, N. J. They get some social security and Johnny gets a small pension. Their total income is $188 a month

Foley's hobby is a ham radio set. It lifts his spirit to be able to talk with other men, some far away. Mary cannot talk well. So she sits and looks at television and sometimes, when days and weeks go by with no visitors, she gets the blues.

When her morale sags, Mary feels guilty. Many people, many neighbors, have been kind to the Foleys. So she blames herself as she looks out the 13th floor window at a vast expanse of sunlight and feels overtaken by loneliness. She has plenty of relatives, but they are too busy to visit. Only a nephew, Raymond McCarthy, finds the time to stop by, armed with a smile and a coffee cake, to sit awhile and give her the small news of small people. Then she brightens.

Her husband is the only one who sees these moods. When she came down to the shore, she

They have great senses of humor. Mary laughs until her eyes are moist, the paralyzed left hand shaking against her stomach. Johnny chuckles. Children get the most attention from the Foleys. No child, according to them, can do anything wrong. No child should be criticized or punished. Foley cannot move a hundred feet without both legs going into cramps. Still, he and his wife tired so much of looking at the four walls that Johnny painted the place himself. It took a long time, but Mary was proud of it when it was completed, and a neighbor hung some fresh curtains for them. For awhile, Mary was happy showing the place off. She drags her left side and, enroute to another room, she tried not to touch the wall for support. But even that cannot keep a woman ecstatic for long. When Kelly and I drove them home, I could sense the sadness of two kids who have finished the ice cream soda, have cleaned the bottom of the glass with straw and spoon, and who must now leave the premises. When we got to Heckmann Drive, I helped Mary out of the car. Johnny unlocked the mail box.

There was one letter in it. He held it up. The cancellation mark said "Toledo, Ohio." He opened it. A dollar bill fell out and fluttered to the ground. "We're so lucky," Mary said. Yes in-

Pittsburgh Defeats Cardinals Eighth Time In Nine Tries, 7-2

Don Hoak's 3-Run Triple Is Key Blow

McBean Chalks Up 7th Win; Jackson Suffers 8th Loss

ST. LOUIS (UPI)-The Pittsburgh Pirates, using a key hit by Don Hoak and the six-hit pitching of Al McBean, rolled to their eighth victory in nine tries over the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday, a 7-2 triumph.

The victory increased the Pirates' third-place lead over St. Louis to two games and gave them a series win, two games

Hoak blasted a three-run triple off the left-field wall and the tip of Stan Musial's outstretched glove to break a 2-2 deadlock and spark a four-run sixth inning.

The blow came off Cardinal starter Larry Jackson, who came within one pitch of getting out of the inning after the first two batters reached base on a single and double hit his third consecutive home run, a drive that gave Pittsburgh drove in seven tallies.

The only Cardinal runs came in the second inning on a passed ball and an infield out.

The win was McBean's seventh against five defeats and his second over the Redbirds. He struck seven Pirate runs.

AK943 ♥ 1052 ♦ KQ96 & K2 Q. 5—As South you hold: The bidding has proceeded: West North East South Pass Pass 1 ♦ Pass Pass ? What do you bid now?

A .- Two no trump. You have 11 points in high cards which justifies another forward move. The most likely game possibility seems to be in no trump and such a suggestion is in order for the responding hand even when he has a suit unpro-

Q. 2-As South you hold: AK74 ♥K6 ◆A 1063 ♣Q 1075 The bidding has proceeded: North East South Pass Pass 1 ♦ Pass Pass 4 & Pass Pass Pass 5 . Pass

What do you bid now? A.—Six no trump. Your side obviously possesses sufficient values to take 12 tricks, but the spade suit appears to be partner's weak spot and an opening lead thru your king could prove fatal.

Q. 3-As South you hold: AA 1095 ♥AK J3 ♦ 5 ♣KQ 74 The bidding has proceeded: North East South Pass 1 🛕

What do you bid? A .- Pass. Altho it does not suit our taste to remain silent on a hand of this strength any offensive maeuver is fraught with great danger. Furthermore, there is always the prospect that the enemy will go too far which is usually the best chance a substantial profit on a holding of this type.

Q. 4-As South you hold: AA942 ♥A865 ◆A43 ♣ Q10 The bidding has proceeded: East South West North North Pass 2♥ Pass 1♠ Pass

What do you bid now? A .- Double. Partner is almost cerheart so that his distribution should prove good for your hand. In fact, if he has spades a game may be contemplated. If his bid is in one of the minors and the opponents go back to diamonds which was our proceed to three hearts you should alternative contract anyway.

♠K43 ♥J86 ♦K107 ♣ 10964 The bidding has proceeded: North East South West Pass 1NT Pass

What do you bid now? A .- Three hearts. Take a great big demerit for a pass. Partner has more hearts than spades other wise he would have bid spades first Furthermore, he must have a fine heart preference at the three level. Therefore, your bid shows no very great values. Q. 6-As South you hold:

▲ 10975 ♥J5 ◆ AQ5 ♣J953 The bidding has proceeded: West North East South Double What do you bid?

A .- One spade. With nine points you have distinctly enough to offer a free bid even the your suit is very shabby If you don't take action immediately it may be difficult to make up for it later and an opportunity to score might be

Q. 7-As South you hold: ★K ♥A 10 9 7 ◆ A 9 6 ♣ AKQ 10 7 The bidding has proceeded: South West North East Pass Pass Pass Pass

What do you bid now? A .- Four diamonds. A slam try is in order at this point, but it should be made below the game level in the form of a cue bid. If partner returns to four hearts your duties will have been discharged. Q. 8-As South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded: East South West Pass 2 ♦ Pass Pass

What do you bid now? A .- We recommend the slightly lainly marked with a singleton fancy bid of three hearts at this three no trump if he has clubs pro-

A .- Two no trump. You have 11 points in high cards which justifies another forward move. The most likely game possibility seems to be in no trump and such a suggestion is in order for the responding hand when he has a suit unpro-

Pass 1 ♦ Pass 2 4 Pass 4 4 Pass 4 . Pass 4 ¥ Pass 5 4 Pass What do you bid now?

A .- Six no trump. Your side obviously possesses sufficient values to take 12 tricks, but the spade suit appears to be partner's weak spot and an opening lead thru your king

Q. 3-As South you hold: AA 1095 ♥AKJ3 ♦ 5 ♣KQ74 The bidding has proceeded: West North East South Pass

What do you bid? A -- Pass Altho it does not suit our taste to remain silent on a hand of this strength any offensive ma-neuver is fraught with great danger. Pass

What do you bid now? A .- Three hearts. Take a great big demerit for a pass. Partner has more hearts than spades, other wise he would have bid spades first Furthermore, he must have a fine hand since you are forced to show a heart preference at the three level. Therefore, your bid shows no very great values.

Q. 6-As South you hold: ▲ 10975 ♥J5 ◆ AQ5 ♣J953 The bidding has proceeded: West North East South Double 1♥

What do you bid? A .- One spade. With nine points you have distinctly enough to offer a free bid even the your suit is very shabby If you don't take action immediately it may be difficult to make up for it later and an opportunity to score might be

Nuzum, Light Agree On Valve Maintenance

5-Point Program Is Recommended

In a report to Water Commis sioner G. Ray Light, City Engineer C. R. Nuzum has recommended that the Water Department adopt a five-point program for the maintenance of valves which control water lines in the program, which results from the final report on the recent water waste survey held here by the Pitometer Associates calls for the department to:

-Repair all valves which need repacking or repairs

-Mark all valves having coun ter-clockwise closing.

-Establish and keep a record of every valve in the system. -Uncover any valves known to be covered up with blacktop. -All valves on main distribution lines should be scheduled for check and operation on a sys tematic basis.
